Review

"Replete with illustrative true life stories, step-by-step 'user friendly' guidelines, and inspiring anecdotes for helping the reader craft and then achieve for themselves their own definitions of 'the good life'."

—Midwest Book Review

"Storytelling. What a lovely thing that is.... All of us are walking stories. ... Sometimes others tell our story for us – as BJ does in this book, unfolding each person's story in a lovely way. We learn from others' stories. They manifest courage, to inspire us. They cry: "Don't give up!" They cry: "See how crooked was the path by which I reached my dreams? Don't despair if yours is not the straight path to your destination ... You will get there. See! I did. Because it's never too late."

–Richard Bolles, author of the bestselling What Color is Your Parachute?

"I've always loved inspiring quotes. In fact, I have a refrigerator magnet with George Eliot's famous quote, "It's never too late to be what you might have been." My own life is a testament to its truth ... thus far I've been an entrepreneur, a mom, a wife, an author and keynote speaker, and a merchandising maven. Who knows how many more challenging roles I'll take on in the second half of my life?"

–Lisa Hammond, aka the Barefoot CEO, founder of Femail Creations catalog, author of Dream Big

As I read It's Never Too Late To Be What You Might Have Been, I found myself smiling and nodding in agreement as I read, because I identify with so many of the great stories of people reinventing themselves. From the Inside Flap

Never-Too-Late Tips for Making Your Dream Come True:

1. Create a mental picture of what your life would look like if you were living your dream. The mind thinks in pictures, so make a "mental movie" of your dream come true. Play and replay this movie often.
2. Manage your motivation. Read books; watch DVDs; listen to CDs that help keep your enthusiasm, energy, and commitment high.
3. Keep your eyes and ears open. Opportunity is everywhere, if you're alert enough to recognize it.
4. Practice active gratitude. Take a few minutes each day to notice the things in your life that you're grateful for—the place you live, your car, your pets, treasured possessions, friends, your job, etc. Appreciation of what you have brings more good things into your life.
5. Ask for what you want. You might be surprised how often you get it.
